

City's Traction
Lines to Show
Big Increase
Nearly 70 Miles of Track
Will Be Added to Interborough and B. R. T. Systems in Coming Year
Program Almost Complete

Many Important Links Will Be Opened Inaugurating
Universal Fare Plan

A record increase in local transit facilities in 1920 is predicted by John H. Delaney, Transit Construction Commissioner. Unless labor trouble intervenes 69 1/2 miles of track will be added to the present lines in the coming year, marking the completion of the city's rapid transit program, with the exception of three small lines, which probably will be completed by 1921, according to the reports at the Public Service Commission's office.

Reviewing the work done on the traction lines, Mr. Delaney said yesterday: "Rapid transit construction work went steadily forward during the year, although labor conditions were at times acute and prices of material mounted steadily. During the year the passenger service over the Interborough Rapid Transit lines were increased by 15.7 track miles and the mileage of the New York municipal system expanded 12.5 miles, a total increase of 28.2 miles.

Contracts, involving approximately $46,000,000, under way in the various branches at the present time. About $10,000,000 worth of work was completed during 1919 and $10,000,000 worth remains to be done before completion. Present indications are that all of the contracts except those involved in the construction of the so-called Fourteenth Street-Eastern line, extending from the vicinity of Union Square, Manhattan, to the Bushwick district in Brooklyn, will be completed before the end of next year.

Links To Be Opened
"Links of the two systems placed in operation this year and those to be opened to the public in 1920 are as follows:

Interborough Lines Placed in Operation in 1919	Track Mileage
Clark Street tunnel, from Wall Street, Manhattan, to Atlantic Avenue station, Brooklyn	6.65
Polham Bay extension, from River to Hunt's Point station, Bronx	10.12
Total	16.77
Interborough Lines to Be Placed in Operation in 1920	Track Mileage
Eastern Parkway (Brooklyn) line, from Atlantic Avenue to Buffalo Avenue	13.05
Linden Avenue (Brooklyn) line, from Avenue to New Lots Road	4.91
North Avenue (Brooklyn) line, from the junction of Eastern Parkway to end of line	6.53
Polham Bay extension (Bronx) line, from Hunt's Point Road to Polham Bay Park	11.97
White Plains Road (Bronx) line, from Nevil Avenue station to end of line	1.36
Total	36.82
New York Municipal Lines Placed in Operation in 1919	Track Mileage
Culver line, from Avenue station to Avenue X station, Brooklyn	12.35
Broadway (Brooklyn) line, from Times Square to Sixtieth Street and Lexington Avenue, Manhattan	5.81
Total	18.16
New York Municipal Lines to Be Placed in Operation in 1920	Track Mileage
Fulton and St. Felix Street (Brooklyn) line, from Avenue station to Avenue X station, Brooklyn	4.16
Indus Avenue (Brooklyn) line, from Whitehall Street, Manhattan, to Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn	3.82
Broadway (Brooklyn) line, from Avenue station to Avenue X station, Brooklyn	3.10
Corona Avenue (Brooklyn) line, from Avenue station to Avenue X station, Brooklyn	1.74
Queensboro line, from Avenue station to Avenue X station, Brooklyn	1.44
Total	22.70

Webster Avenue Line Planned
"In addition to the municipally owned lines, on which construction will be completed in the coming year, the Interborough Company will complete and open to traffic its Webster Avenue extension of the Third Avenue "L" line in the Bronx. This extension will provide facilities from Fordham Road and White Plains Avenue, a distance of one and three-fourths miles. The extension is three-tracked and will have stations at 200th Street, 204th Street and at Gun Hill Road.

Present indications are that the extension line through the Montague Street Tunnel in Brooklyn, and the extension of the same line from the station at Sixty-third Street and Lexington Avenue to the extension of the Culver line from Avenue X to Coney Island, will be completed and ready for traffic in April.

The rush of these extensions, Mr. Delaney explained, will mark the legal beginning of the so-called permanent period of the contract between the city and the New York Municipal Corporation, and the initiation of a single fare over all lines of the New York Municipal system between Manhattan, Queens, Brooklyn and Coney Island. Extending the Broadway-Fourth Avenue line through the Sixtieth Street Tunnel, and the extension of the B. R. T. lines over the Corona and Astoria branches of the Interborough "L" lines in Queens.

Direct Brighton Service
"With the opening of the Montague Street Tunnel," continued the commissioner, "the reconstructed Brighton Beach service will be extended without change through the heart of Manhattan. The reconstruction of the Brighton Beach division will be completed about the same time as the Montague Street Tunnel and its extension in Brooklyn."

Work on the Eastern Parkway and Nostrand Avenue subways will be finished by mid-summer, according to the latest reports at the office of the Transit Construction Commissioner, and it is expected that the Livonia Avenue "L" line will be ready in the fall. Two extensions of the Interborough system in the Bronx will be opened in the summer.

"The most important," said Commissioner Delaney, "is the Pelham Bay Park branch of the Westchester Avenue line, extending from the junction of Westchester and Pelham Bay Park, embracing

Policeman Kills
Gang Suspect in Street Gun Fight
Battle Follows Shooting in
Syrian Restaurant; Crowd
Sees Ruse Used by Fugitive
Result in His Death

A spectacular revolver battle, during which ten shots were exchanged between Patrolman Joseph J. Wimmer, of the Old Slip station, and Phillip La Houd, known to the authorities as a gangster and gunman, ended early yesterday in the death of the outlaw after he had received two chances for his life.

The final shooting took place at the Rector Street station of the B. R. T. subway and was preceded by an exchange of shots during a chase of several blocks. La Houd, the police say, had entered a Syrian restaurant at 95 Washington Street for the purpose of holding up the patrons. A similar robbery in that place last year yielded $15,000 in loot to the gang, of which the victim of yesterday's fight is said to have been a member. La Houd fired three shots after he entered the restaurant and seriously wounded Tuffie Zuzher, thirty-five years old, of 59 Washington Street.

Burglar Alarm Calls Policeman
Patrolman Wimmer was just completing his tour of duty when his attention was attracted by the ringing of a burglar alarm at Rector and Washington streets. He started toward the doorway of the restaurant, which is owned by Abraham Nurnari. The man carried his revolver in his hand and turned at Washington and Morris streets. Wimmer followed.

When the patrolman turned the corner the fugitive shot three shots at him. Wimmer returned the fire with two shots and followed La Houd through Morris street to Greenwich Street, where the bandit made for the Rector subway station. Wimmer was almost at La Houd's heels, but was afraid to shoot because of a crowd of early morning workers leaving the tube. He called to the man to halt, and La Houd raised his hands over his head, crying:

"Don't shoot! I've got enough!"

Ruse Used by Fugitive
As Wimmer approached the bandit's hands slowly dropped, but were jerked aloft again when the patrolman warned him:

"Stick 'em up. Don't try any funny business."

The patrolman approached, then confident that La Houd would not try to shoot, but when he was within five yards of the bandit La Houd's arms swooped down and his revolver was leveled at Wimmer. Then Wimmer fired the bullet striking La Houd in the chest. As the patrolman leaned over him La Houd gasped:

"Why did you shoot?"

Bystanders said there was no question that the fugitive would have shot the patrolman had he not fired first. An ambulance was summoned from the Broad Street Hospital, and after Dr. Page had declared the man dead the body was taken to the Old Slip station.

Identification of the dead man was made from papers found in his clothing. The police say he was 35 years old and a member of the Red Hope gang, one member of which is awaiting execution in Sing Sing for the murder of a Harlem bartender, slain during a hold-up. Other members also are said to be serving prison terms for robberies.

Attack Laid to Duel
Detectives who were assigned to make an investigation of the shooting yesterday said that La Houd, who also was a Syrian, undoubtedly went to the restaurant to hold up his patrons. He was well known in the district and only a year ago fought a revolver duel with a Syrian named Frezele, but neither was injured. Frezele was in the restaurant yesterday when La Houd entered, and it is believed the shots he fired were meant for the former. Zuzher was struck by a stray bullet.

The police of the Old Slip station are equally positive La Houd planned a hold-up. The robbery last year also was a daylight "job." The men robbed were almost all Syrian merchants and several lost large sums of money.

$200,000 Suit Against
Nurse Given to Jury

Miss Ballenger Fails to File Answer in Case Brought by Mrs. Seamans

Miss Willie Maude Ballenger, a nurse, who was sued by Mrs. Adele G. Seamans for $200,000 damages for alleged alienation of the affections of Morris Garland Seamans, failed to file an answer to the complaint of the wife, and Justice Greenbaum yesterday ordered the case sent to a sheriff's jury for assessment of damages.

Miss Ballenger received $250,000 under the contested will of Judge Carter, of Atlanta, Ga., whom she nursed for a long time. It was in her professional work that she made the acquaintance of the Seamans family in Atlanta. In 1917 Seamans disappeared from his home. Nine months later he sent a message to his wife from Washington asking her to join him and share with their daughter. A reconciliation followed.

In July last, it is alleged, Seamans again disappeared from his home, and his wife, with the aid of detectives, traced him to New York, where he was living in a house in West Fifty-eighth Street. At the same time the nurse was serving in the apartment suit Seamans was served with a summons to appear in the Domestic Relations Court to answer to the charge of his wife that he was not supporting her and her daughter.

Wells Now "Harper's" Editor
Succeeds Late Henry Mills Alden in Charge of Magazine

Thomas Bucklin Wells, for seventeen years associate editor of "Harper's Magazine," with a slight change of title, has been appointed editor of that periodical, succeeding the late Henry Mills Alden.

Mr. Wells joined the Harper staff more than twenty years ago, after a brief experience in newspaper work. He was closely associated with Mr. Alden, who followed many of his suggestions in regard to both the literary and printing end of the business. Mr. Wells, who is vice-president and secretary of Harper's, is a member of the D. K. E. fraternity, the Elizabethan Club, the Eliza Club of Yale, and the Century and Yale clubs of this city.

Lee Foster Hartman will be the new associate editor. He is known as a short story writer and has published one novel.

These Offerings
for both
Monday and Tuesday

HOLIDAY WEEK SALES
Apparel Reduction Sales—Vacation Week Sales—
Gift-Money Sales
Savings Are of Unusual Shopping Interest to All

Apparel Reduction Week
Offers Money-Saving Opportunities in SUITS
for Misses and Women

In view of present costs, these values are positively extraordinary, and afford an opportunity to buy smart suits of fine quality and make for prices that would not pay the manufacturer to-day.

Our regular $37.75	22.50
to $42.75
Our regular $49.75	28.50
to $59.75

FABRICS—Serge, broadcloth, wool poplin, gabardine, silvertone, tricotine, duvet de laine, duvet superior, yalame and gold tip.

COLORS—Brown, raisin, henna, copen, reindeer, navy and black.

All Suits are so beautifully lined and interlined that, if for no other reason, they deserve special recognition, for the tailoring throughout is the best—they are an actual sacrifice, because we will go right into the market and buy them over again at a higher price!

No Charge for Alterations.

These Offerings
for both
Monday and Tuesday

HOLIDAY WEEK SALES
Apparel Reduction Sales—Vacation Week Sales—
Gift-Money Sales
Savings Are of Unusual Shopping Interest to All

Apparel Reduction Week
Offers Money-Saving Opportunities in SUITS
for Misses and Women

In view of present costs, these values are positively extraordinary, and afford an opportunity to buy smart suits of fine quality and make for prices that would not pay the manufacturer to-day.

Our regular $68.75	44.75
to $79.50
Our regular $87.75	54.57
to $89.50

STYLES—The season's best liked models—majority are fashionably tailored on straight, long lines, while others have blouse backs or duvetyn vests; tailored or convertible collars of self-material or collars of seeline, nutria or Australian opossum.

When the patrolman turned the corner the fugitive shot three shots at him. Wimmer returned the fire with two shots and followed La Houd through Morris street to Greenwich Street, where the bandit made for the Rector subway station. Wimmer was almost at La Houd's heels, but was afraid to shoot because of a crowd of early morning workers leaving the tube. He called to the man to halt, and La Houd raised his hands over his head, crying:

"Don't shoot! I've got enough!"

Ruse Used by Fugitive
As Wimmer approached the bandit's hands slowly dropped, but were jerked aloft again when the patrolman warned him:

"Stick 'em up. Don't try any funny business."

The patrolman approached, then confident that La Houd would not try to shoot, but when he was within five yards of the bandit La Houd's arms swooped down and his revolver was leveled at Wimmer. Then Wimmer fired the bullet striking La Houd in the chest. As the patrolman leaned over him La Houd gasped:

"Why did you shoot?"

Bystanders said there was no question that the fugitive would have shot the patrolman had he not fired first. An ambulance was summoned from the Broad Street Hospital, and after Dr. Page had declared the man dead the body was taken to the Old Slip station.

Identification of the dead man was made from papers found in his clothing. The police say he was 35 years old and a member of the Red Hope gang, one member of which is awaiting execution in Sing Sing for the murder of a Harlem bartender, slain during a hold-up. Other members also are said to be serving prison terms for robberies.

Attack Laid to Duel
Detectives who were assigned to make an investigation of the shooting yesterday said that La Houd, who also was a Syrian, undoubtedly went to the restaurant to hold up his patrons. He was well known in the district and only a year ago fought a revolver duel with a Syrian named Frezele, but neither was injured. Frezele was in the restaurant yesterday when La Houd entered, and it is believed the shots he fired were meant for the former. Zuzher was struck by a stray bullet.

The police of the Old Slip station are equally positive La Houd planned a hold-up. The robbery last year also was a daylight "job." The men robbed were almost all Syrian merchants and several lost large sums of money.

$200,000 Suit Against
Nurse Given to Jury

Miss Ballenger Fails to File Answer in Case Brought by Mrs. Seamans

Miss Willie Maude Ballenger, a nurse, who was sued by Mrs. Adele G. Seamans for $200,000 damages for alleged alienation of the affections of Morris Garland Seamans, failed to file an answer to the complaint of the wife, and Justice Greenbaum yesterday ordered the case sent to a sheriff's jury for assessment of damages.

Miss Ballenger received $250,000 under the contested will of Judge Carter, of Atlanta, Ga., whom she nursed for a long time. It was in her professional work that she made the acquaintance of the Seamans family in Atlanta. In 1917 Seamans disappeared from his home. Nine months later he sent a message to his wife from Washington asking her to join him and share with their daughter. A reconciliation followed.

In July last, it is alleged, Seamans again disappeared from his home, and his wife, with the aid of detectives, traced him to New York, where he was living in a house in West Fifty-eighth Street. At the same time the nurse was serving in the apartment suit Seamans was served with a summons to appear in the Domestic Relations Court to answer to the charge of his wife that he was not supporting her and her daughter.

Wells Now "Harper's" Editor
Succeeds Late Henry Mills Alden in Charge of Magazine

Thomas Bucklin Wells, for seventeen years associate editor of "Harper's Magazine," with a slight change of title, has been appointed editor of that periodical, succeeding the late Henry Mills Alden.

Mr. Wells joined the Harper staff more than twenty years ago, after a brief experience in newspaper work. He was closely associated with Mr. Alden, who followed many of his suggestions in regard to both the literary and printing end of the business. Mr. Wells, who is vice-president and secretary of Harper's, is a member of the D. K. E. fraternity, the Elizabethan Club, the Eliza Club of Yale, and the Century and Yale clubs of this city.

Lee Foster Hartman will be the new associate editor. He is known as a short story writer and has published one novel.

These Offerings
for both
Monday and Tuesday

HOLIDAY WEEK SALES
Apparel Reduction Sales—Vacation Week Sales—
Gift-Money Sales
Savings Are of Unusual Shopping Interest to All

Apparel Reduction Week
Offers Money-Saving Opportunities in SUITS
for Misses and Women

In view of present costs, these values are positively extraordinary, and afford an opportunity to buy smart suits of fine quality and make for prices that would not pay the manufacturer to-day.

Our regular $37.75	22.50
to $42.75
Our regular $49.75	28.50
to $59.75

FABRICS—Serge, broadcloth, wool poplin, gabardine, silvertone, tricotine, duvet de laine, duvet superior, yalame and gold tip.

COLORS—Brown, raisin, henna, copen, reindeer, navy and black.

All Suits are so beautifully lined and interlined that, if for no other reason, they deserve special recognition, for the tailoring throughout is the best—they are an actual sacrifice, because we will go right into the market and buy them over again at a higher price!

No Charge for Alterations.

These Offerings
for both
Monday and Tuesday

HOLIDAY WEEK SALES
Apparel Reduction Sales—Vacation Week Sales—
Gift-Money Sales
Savings Are of Unusual Shopping Interest to All

Apparel Reduction Week
Offers Money-Saving Opportunities in SUITS
for Misses and Women

In view of present costs, these values are positively extraordinary, and afford an opportunity to buy smart suits of fine quality and make for prices that would not pay the manufacturer to-day.

Our regular $68.75	44.75
to $79.50
Our regular $87.75	54.57
to $89.50

STYLES—The season's best liked models—majority are fashionably tailored on straight, long lines, while others have blouse backs or duvetyn vests; tailored or convertible collars of self-material or collars of seeline, nutria or Australian opossum.

When the patrolman turned the corner the fugitive shot three shots at him. Wimmer returned the fire with two shots and followed La Houd through Morris street to Greenwich Street, where the bandit made for the Rector subway station. Wimmer was almost at La Houd's heels, but was afraid to shoot because of a crowd of early morning workers leaving the tube. He called to the man to halt, and La Houd raised his hands over his head, crying:

"Don't shoot! I've got enough!"

Ruse Used by Fugitive
As Wimmer approached the bandit's hands slowly dropped, but were jerked aloft again when the patrolman warned him:

"Stick 'em up. Don't try any funny business."

The patrolman approached, then confident that La Houd would not try to shoot, but when he was within five yards of the bandit La Houd's arms swooped down and his revolver was leveled at Wimmer. Then Wimmer fired the bullet striking La Houd in the chest. As the patrolman leaned over him La Houd gasped:

"Why did you shoot?"

Bystanders said there was no question that the fugitive would have shot the patrolman had he not fired first. An ambulance was summoned from the Broad Street Hospital, and after Dr. Page had declared the man dead the body was taken to the Old Slip station.

Identification of the dead man was made from papers found in his clothing. The police say he was 35 years old and a member of the Red Hope gang, one member of which is awaiting execution in Sing Sing for the murder of a Harlem bartender, slain during a hold-up. Other members also are said to be serving prison terms for robberies.

Attack Laid to Duel
Detectives who were assigned to make an investigation of the shooting yesterday said that La Houd, who also was a Syrian, undoubtedly went to the restaurant to hold up his patrons. He was well known in the district and only a year ago fought a revolver duel with a Syrian named Frezele, but neither was injured. Frezele was in the restaurant yesterday when La Houd entered, and it is believed the shots he fired were meant for the former. Zuzher was struck by a stray bullet.

The police of the Old Slip station are equally positive La Houd planned a hold-up. The robbery last year also was a daylight "job." The men robbed were almost all Syrian merchants and several lost large sums of money.

$200,000 Suit Against
Nurse Given to Jury

Miss Ballenger Fails to File Answer in Case Brought by Mrs. Seamans

Miss Willie Maude Ballenger, a nurse, who was sued by Mrs. Adele G. Seamans for $200,000 damages for alleged alienation of the affections of Morris Garland Seamans, failed to file an answer to the complaint of the wife, and Justice Greenbaum yesterday ordered the case sent to a sheriff's jury for assessment of damages.

Miss Ballenger received $250,000 under the contested will of Judge Carter, of Atlanta, Ga., whom she nursed for a long time. It was in her professional work that she made the acquaintance of the Seamans family in Atlanta. In 1917 Seamans disappeared from his home. Nine months later he sent a message to his wife from Washington asking her to join him and share with their daughter. A reconciliation followed.

In July last, it is alleged, Seamans again disappeared from his home, and his wife, with the aid of detectives, traced him to New York, where he was living in a house in West Fifty-eighth Street. At the same time the nurse was serving in the apartment suit Seamans was served with a summons to appear in the Domestic Relations Court to answer to the charge of his wife that he was not supporting her and her daughter.

Wells Now "Harper's" Editor
Succeeds Late Henry Mills Alden in Charge of Magazine

Thomas Bucklin Wells, for seventeen years associate editor of "Harper's Magazine," with a slight change of title, has been appointed editor of that periodical, succeeding the late Henry Mills Alden.

Mr. Wells joined the Harper staff more than twenty years ago, after a brief experience in newspaper work. He was closely associated with Mr. Alden, who followed many of his suggestions in regard to both the literary and printing end of the business. Mr. Wells, who is vice-president and secretary of Harper's, is a member of the D. K. E. fraternity, the Elizabethan Club, the Eliza Club of Yale, and the Century and Yale clubs of this city.

Lee Foster Hartman will be the new associate editor. He is known as a short story writer and has published one novel.

Our Annual January Sale begins
Friday, January 2, 1920

HOLIDAY WEEK SALES
Apparel Reduction Sales—Vacation Week Sales—
Gift-Money Sales
Savings Are of Unusual Shopping Interest to All

Vacation Week Reductions in BOYS' SUITS

BOYS' SUITS—Norfolk and semi-Norfolk models—some with extra trousers—9 to 18 yrs.—

Our regular $9.74	8.50
Our regular $13.50	10.50
Our regular $16.50	13.50

Boys' Corduroy Suits—semi-Norfolk models—tan, light brown and mouse—trousers lined—some have extra trousers—7 to 17 years—

Our regular $10.74	8.75
Our regular $11.94	10.50

Little Boys' Suits—sailor, middie and pleated Norfolk styles—mixtures—navy and wool khaki—4 to 9 years—

our regular $9.74	8.50
Boys' Raincoats and Outfits	3.96 to 11.94

OVERCOATS
Junior and school models, heavy Winter cheviot overcoatings in plain colors and novelty effects—sizes to 18 years in the lot—

Our regular $11.94	8.50
Our regular $16.50	13.50
Our regular $18.50	16.50
Our regular $19.50	17.50

MACKINAW
Our regular $9.74

Our regular $13.50

BOYS' FURNISHINGS
Children's Coat Sweaters—desirable colors—including maroon, oxford and brown—with roll collars and pockets, also slip-overs—sizes 28 to 34—

our regular $4.96	3.85
--------------------	------

Boys' Blouses—newest patterns and colors—light and medium striped percales—collars attached—8 to 15 years—

our regular $1.48	1.18
--------------------	------

Boys' Blouses—tan or gray flannel with collars attached—well made and full cut—8 to 15 years—

our regular $1.94	1.47
--------------------	------

Boys' Caps—newest colors and styles—brown, gray and fancy mixtures—with or without inside bands—

our regular $1.48	1.15
--------------------	------

Children's Flannellette Pajamas—two-piece style—pink and blue stripes—frog trim—6 to 10 years—

our reg. $1.94 and $2.24	1.47
----------------------------	------

Gift Money Sales
Leather Goods

Worth-while thoughts for the spending of gift money.

Velvet Hand Bags—attractive styles with inside frame or drop purse and mirror—taupe, navy, brown and black—our reg. $4.87....3.88

Velvet and Leather Hand Bags—various styles in black and popular colors—our reg. $2.77....2.27

Fine Velvet Bags—beautiful Dutch silver frames—handsomely fitted and lined—finished with heavy silk drop tassels—our reg. $9.00....6.75

Cravenette and Cortex Tourist Cases—styles for men and women—white or black fittings—our reg. $4.87....3.27

Travel Bags—black—14 and 18 inches....Special 5.00

Fibre Suit Cases—with reinforced corners and straps around—24 inches long—our regular $4.71....4.00

Gift Money Sales in JEWELRY

of lasting beauty is a most satisfactory investment for your gift money, particularly when bought at these special prices:—

SOLID GOLD RINGS—14-karat—sapphire, ruby and other stones—open work settings—many designs—our regular $16.97....10.00

BEADED BAGS of rare, artistic beauty—our regular $42.97 and $53.97....38.95

PEARL NECKLACES—solid gold clasps—Oriental tints—our regular $21.97....15.00

SOLID GOLD SCARF PINS—set with small diamonds—our regular $13.97 to $16.97....11.97

MEN'S SOLID GOLD RINGS—Amethyst and other stones—our regular $35.97....25.97

Gift Money Sales in
PORTIERES—CURTAINS

Many charming styles and colors in our immense selections. All splendid values, too.

Fine Marquisette Panel Curtains (2 1/2 yards long)—Antique, Cluny, Madeira and Fillet effects; white or Arabian tint. Special, each....5.94

Fine Net Curtains—Marie Antoinette designs—about 40 beautiful styles—6.97-9.97-15.97

Fine Marquisette Bed Sets

With Bolster Shams—Fillet and Madeira design. Unusual value....15.94

Reversible Art Silk Frou-Frou Portieres—Solid or two-tone combinations. Special, pair....19.94

Tapestry Couch Covers—Oriental rug and verdure designs....8.94

Moquette Table Scarfs—27x54 inches—Chinese, Medallion and Allover figured effects—value $7.94....5.94

Art Silk Frou-Frou Library Scarfs—value $2.75....2.24